The Green Event Center

Holly Mickler

The Green Event Center is a natural fit for the Friendswood community with its professionally decorated dramatic interior finishes and spacious layout for up to 250 seated guests. It's the perfect place for business meetings, specialty events, wedding reception, or private corporate functions.

Located at 2000 W. Parkwood in the Jacob White Building, the Green Event Center takes advantage of the progressive technology incorporated into a LEED's certified structure including a "green roof" with a garden and shrubs. The interior lighting and sound/ projection system in this five thousand square foot facility will make any occasion a memorable event.

Holly and Jeff Mickler met in Friendswood in 1968 and have lived here most of their lives. They are very familiar with the great business climate and yet the small town atmosphere the community provides.

When Holly conceived the idea of this unique facility, she had two distinct advantages and made good use of them both. Jeff has been in the commercial construction and development markets all of his professional life and was the best person to help with the location. Ann Curry is an executive chef with all the answers for your menu no matter whether it's continental, southern, trendy, down home Texan, or just something a little health conscious. Ann has arranged menus for various U.S. presidents, movie stars and their directors, medical centers, private upscale restaurants, and even...spacemen. Holly remarked about the advantage of having a business in Friendswood is "that it's close to home and there is no other place like The Green Event Center in town or around the area."

The Green Event Center is now a part of Friendswood, a place where employers recognize their employees, life long commitments are celebrated, business meetings are conducted, or maybe just families and friends arrange for good times together.
